Edinburgh will celebrate in December the centennial of the birth of Thomas Carlyle.

It is said that Tom Watson will be the next Populist candidate for Governor of Georgia.

The Spanish campaign in Cuba is reported to have cost $20,000,000 up to date, and hasn't even carried a precinct.

Spain is going to send a "fresh" lot of generals to Cuba. For quite a while the opinion has been that those already there are "fresh."

Spain has ordered more warships to Cuba. If the Cuban rebellion continues much longer she will be reduced to revenue cutters.

Louisiana can afford to give the Cuban insurgents something more substantial than sympathy. The insurrection has boosted the price of sugar.

England's strong woman calls herself "Mlle. Athlete." She stands five feet seven, weighs 150 pounds, and her waist measurement is forty-two inches.

According to a cablegram, the Chinese authorities maintain that the seven executions of natives amply avenged the massacre of Christians at Kuching.

The Louisville Central Labor Union yesterday voted down a proposition to invite Kehr Hardie, the British Socialist labor leader, to make a speech there. And it did right.

The Porte has been informed by the British Ambassador at Constantinople that Lord Salisbury will not recede from the demand for reforms in the administration of the Armenian affairs.

Count de Castellane and his wife (Anna Gould) gave a grand country fête at the Castle of Rochecotte, Indre-et-Loire, France, recently. Four thousand persons dined and danced in the park.

The scarcity of water is becoming a serious matter with farmers in Central Kentucky. Water is so scarce and valuable, says the Courier Journal, that farmers whose wells are not dry resort to unusual means to prevent theft of their supply.

The Philadelphia Record very properly remarks that New York city is a Democratic town, and the intelligent leaders should see to it that the enormous Democratic majority there is put in line and kept in line for the national Democracy in 1896.

Sir Henry Hawkins once said to a man who, after pleading guilty to a charge of larceny, withdrew the plea and was acquitted: "Prisoner, a few minutes ago you said you were a thief. Now the jury says you are a liar. Consequently, you are discharged."

The resident of northern Franklin county, N. Y., who for personal reasons has just tried to change the Canadian border by moving an iron post which marks the boundary line, should have been a Venezuelan. He could quickly settle the controversy with England.

No question of the present day is being more warmly or universally discussed than that of social purity. It will, therefore, be an exceedingly timely topic, and by one who knows whereof she speaks when Mrs. Elizabeth B. Grannis, president of the National Christian League for the Promotion of Social Purity, gives, during the conference of the National Council of Women at the Atlanta Exposition, an address on this subject. The moral forces are everywhere gaining momentum and social impurity must be swept away before them.

DEATH OF GEN. MAHONE.

The death of this celebrated Virginian occurred yesterday in Washington. For days it has been expected, as no hope was entertained of his recovery from the time he was stricken down with paralysis. His passing away removes from the sphere of life one of the most remarkable men ever born on the soil of Virginia. His whole life was an exhibit of an indomitable will and an unquenchable ambition that brooked no opposition and that submitted to no restraint. He was no compromiser, unless the compromise was in his favor, and he would court defeat, irrespective of and not caring for the consequences, rather than give way an inch, should the giving away in the slightest manner interfere with his leadership or his conceived authority to rule.

It was ever thus with him; and it was a trait that, while it created the strongest of antagonisms and the bitterest of resistances, yet never failed to command the admiration of his friends and the acknowledged tributes of his foes. It was rule or ruin with him, and no man this country has produced ever exercised power with a more despotism away or faced disaster with an undimmed nerve as William Mahone, of Virginia.

Rather than submit to displacement from control of the Democratic party in Virginia, he divided and wrecked the party, not caring a fig for past associations or record. That he might secure supreme power in the Senate of the United States, he did not hesitate to surrender all connection with and allegiance to the Democratic party, recognizing that in doing so he forever estranged himself from political and social relations with the people of the South, whose anger at his course was all the more intense, because they had gloried in his splendid war record, and they recognized his great abilities, which they never dreamed would be turned against them in the interests and advancement of a party that had never exhibited the slightest sympathy with their misfortunes, but which had ever uplifted its mailed hand to strike them down to the dust.

But he has passed away. Virginians will forget what they considered his failings. They were the faults of unbridled ambition. At heart he was a thorough Virginian. It was "Mahone, Virginia" that ever indicated his feelings and his heart in this respect. As the soldier, whose deeds are imperishable, reflecting glory upon the Commonwealth and undying fame upon himself, will be remembered, and this is as it should be. Peace to his ashes.

VINDICATED THE HONOR OF HIS STATE.

The vigorous young Governor of "the Lone Star State" is being applauded by the whole country for the prompt and effectual manner in which he vindicated the honor of his State, and Texas should feel proud of him, as no doubt he does. To have permitted "the mill" between Corbett and Fitzsimmons would have been a blight upon the Commonwealth, and a reflection upon its Chief Executive, when he had means at hand to prevent it, and all honor to him for his vigorous action. It cost the State a goodly sum, it is true, to convene the Legislature in extra session to pass a prohibitory law to prevent the fight, but as large as the sum may be it was money well expended. There should be no place in this country where these gentry can "pull off" their fight and the time will come, if it is not already here, when such will be the fact.

The patriotic people of Texas should stand by their Governor in all that he has done concerning this matter. It was better by far to spend a few thousand dollars to uphold the honor and good name of the State, as the Governor of Texas has done, than to have saved the money and permitted the fight.

NOT A RUINED INDUSTRY.

The oft-repeated prediction that the passage of the Wilson bill would be followed by the ruin of the industries of the country does not seem to have been verified. As the Louisville Courier-Journal remarks, the iron trade has long been regarded as a sort of barometer, indicating the state of general business, and this is so for the reason that it furnishes the implements of production to such an extent that it must be virtually affected by either an increase or decrease of activity in productive industries. This being a fact, the iron Age has gone to the trouble of collecting statistics covering the production of iron which shows a marked increase since the passage of the new tariff. It finds that in August 1, 1894, the beginning of the last month of "the robber tariff," the weekly production of the furnaces was 115,113 tons. On August 25th the new tariff bill became a law. On September 1, 1894, the weekly capacity of the furnaces had risen to 151,115 tons. A year later, on September 1, 1895, the weekly output had risen to 194,025.

Since the advent of the new tariff the country has been gradually and surely returning to its former prosperity. Every avenue of trade has been opened and a healthier tone pervades every branch of industry. Thousands upon thousands of men who were without work have returned to their various vocations and once more the country is advancing upon the high road of prosperity.

The Howlery Growlery Room.

It doesn't pay to be cross, It's not worth while to try it, For many's eyes are sharp, Are very sure to spy it, A pinch on Billy's arm, A snarl or a sullen frown, No longer we stay, but must up and away To the howlery growlery room.

CHORUS.
Hi, the howlery! Hi, the growlery!
Hi, the snifflery, snarlery, scowlery!
There we may stay,
If we choose, all day,
But it's only a smile that can bring us away.

It manny out-ache me
A-pitching to Billy,
If Billy breaks my whip
Or scares my rabbit silly,
It's "Make up, boys, quick,
Or else you know your doom!"
We must kiss and be friends, or the squabble ends.

In the howlery growlery room.

So it doesn't pay to be bad,
There's nothing to be won in it,
And when you come to think
There's really not much fun in it,
So, come! The sun is out,
The lilacs are all bloom,
And play, and we'll keep away
From the howlery growlery room!

are by no means those who spend the most extravagant prices for the clothes they wear. With the approval of the people we've established new and very much lower prices for Clothing. You can't go anywhere within a hundred miles of us without hearing people talking about our goods and prices. Better still—the strongest talkers are buyers. They've been here. They know the clothes they talk about. There's no exaggeration when people tell you they used to pay $10, $15 and $20 for Suits which they can now buy at the CRONON BALL CLOTHING COMPANY for $5, $8 and $10. Of course we've disturbed somebody's calculations in lowering prices so greatly. Can't help that. Buyers like it, and we are serving the people. Your attention is directed to

COLONIAL

Ready Mixed Paints

are manufactured by experienced and practical workmen, from compounded materials of intrinsic value as pigments, which are thoroughly mixed and ground together by improved machinery, producing a paint possessing superior durability, covering capacity and uniformity of shade.

Observe the Following Directions:

Never attempt to paint over a wet surface. Stir the paint thoroughly before using. Coat all knots and supply places with shell varnish. Apply first coat rather thin and multiply thoroughly before putting on another coat. For thinning use boiled Linseed Oil for outside work and Turpentine for inside.

Rule as to Amount of Paint Required.

The amount of paint required varies according to the condition of the surface to be covered. As a rule one gallon of this paint will cover 400 to 500 square feet one coat, or 200 to 250 square feet, two coats, if the work is in fair condition; hence, by adding together the length in feet of the sides and ends of the building, and multiplying by the average height, the product, if divided by 200, will give an idea of the quantity required for the work.

Thus, a building may be 40 feet long, 20 feet wide and 25 feet high, 2 sides 80, 2 ends 40, multiply by height 25 feet, 3,000 divide by 200—pay 15 gallons for two coats.
